

SOVIET FORCES IN RUSSIA ARE FACING DISASTER

Forced Back By Enemies on Four Fronts, Their Situation is Desperate.

PETROGRAD THREATENED

General Denikin's Forces Are Only 25 Miles South of Former Russian Capital; Poles Take Kovno and North Russian Army Also Gains.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Forced back by the onslaughts of enemies on four fronts the army of the Soviet government of Russia appeared to be facing a period pregnant with disaster. General Denikin's Cossacks from the South Polish forces from the West Russian legions from the northwest and Russian troops from the North have during the last few days forged ahead until it seems the Bolshevik armies are between the upper and nether millstone.

Petrograd is doomed to capture in the opinion of observers. General Denikin being only 25 miles south of the former Russian capital in the extreme north the Russian army has broken the resistance of the Bolsheviks according to reports further to the south it has forced its way far down along the Dvina river. Polish forces have captured Kovno. Denikin's men have driven a giant wedge into central Russia. East of the Dvina is Admiral Kolchak's army.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 16.—Leftist forces have fought their way across the Duna river at Riga and operations there are now developing favorably according to a dispatch received from Latvia last night by the Finnish press bureau here.

A state of siege has been declared throughout all Lithuania and the mobilization of three classes of soldiers has been ordered. It is announced in a telegram received here from Riga.

The Lithuanian flag has everywhere replaced the Russian colors.

BREWERS WANT DRY ENFORCEMENT BILL TO BE DISAPPROVED

Must That There is Now "No War Emergency," Hence Congress Has No Power to Enact Measure.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The United States Brewers Association yesterday cautioned President Wilson to disapprove the prohibition enforcement bill, claiming that Congress has no constitutional authority to enact any such measure.

The association's statement, which is being distributed to all members of Congress, says that the bill is "a measure dictated by emergency, and not by necessity."

The prohibition enforcement bill, as amended yesterday by Vice President Wilson, was referred to the President for his signature.

The bill, which is now in the hands of the President, is a measure to enforce the prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquors.

SEE HEAVY TRAFFIC ON FARMINGTON ROAD; WILL BUILD A GARAGE

Ohiope Men Buy Lots at Snyder and Robbins Street for Service Station

In increasing the automobile traffic that will follow the completion of the Farmington road with the improvement of but only by its state in the near future, two Ohiope men, Charles A. Shaw and Earl Lambie, have purchased four lots at the corner of Snyder and Robbins streets and will erect thereon a garage.

The transfer of the corner lot from O. O. Osterwe to the new owners was completed yesterday in the office of Attorney F. L. Young. The premises were formerly owned by the Osterwe family.

The new garage will be a two-story building, and will be used for the storage of automobiles.

SENATORS WILL PROBE ACTIVITIES OF RADICALS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Investigation of the steel strike by the Senate labor committee will be closed next week with the examination of witnesses of radical activities. In making this announcement today, Chairman Keweenaw said the decision to close the inquiry next week was reached because of the committee's desire to report to the Senate and expedite consideration of legislation for the Americanization of foreign born residents of the United States.

This legislation will be considered by the committee next Wednesday.

Final witnesses in the steel strike will be heard Monday and Tuesday. Chairman Keweenaw said and the committee then will draft its report.

Several senators had desired to visit the steel district, but it was decided the information obtained at Pittsburgh and in Washington was sufficient.

MAY VOTE TODAY

Senate Hopes to Decide Shantung Amendment During Afternoon.

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Debate on the Shantung amendment to the peace treaty was resumed in the Senate today with leaders hopeful that a final vote would be taken before adjournment. Although contending that the vote would be close, supporters of the proposal generally conceded that it would be defeated.

At the outset of the debate Senator Kellogg Republican Minnesota announced his opposition to the amendment, declaring it would be detrimental to the United States to preserve in dicta in the Far East now after remaining silent while German and other nations had seized territory there in years past.

The Shantung settlement was condemned as immoral by the Minnesota senator who said he would support a reservation by which the United States would decline to be a party to the transaction.

Senator Male Republican Minnesota also announced his opposition to the amendment, declaring it would be detrimental to the United States to preserve in dicta in the Far East now after remaining silent while German and other nations had seized territory there in years past.

HUMAN JUNK HEAP

Two Pounds of Hardware in Man's Stomach

By Associated Press

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Discovery of a human junk heap was announced by officers of the House of Correction at Deer Island yesterday. Charles W. Buzzell of Montreal, serving a sentence of one year for forgery, complained of indigestion.

A surgical operation resulted in the recovery of two pounds of miscellaneous articles from his stomach. The collection of Dr. C. C. Rockwell said included two feet of dog chain, a safety razor blade, nearly whole a suspended buckle and 174 fragments or pieces of glass, hair, wire, staples, nails and screws.

Removal of these objects has almost entirely recovered him, it is said.

The prisoner had been complaining of the collection with suicidal intent according to Dr. Rockwell. Since the discovery he has been kept in the hospital and is now being treated for his condition.

THURSDAY EVENG, OCT. 18, 1917.

THE CHALLENGE TO RAILROAD
EMPLOYEES.The nation-wide drive for the prevention of accidents on the railroads, which is to begin on Saturday, is the kind of a challenge the employees will be ready to accept.During the period of this drive every railroad division in the United States will be in a contest with every other division to make a record in which the prize is the greatest ever offered for competitive effort—the opportunity to prevent the maiming or loss of life of fellow workmen.To achieve this is always the desire of every conscientious and thoughtful railroad worker but it will be brought more vividly to his attention during this drive than ever before. The nature of the contest and the object
to be gained are such that every employee in the shops, on the trains and elsewhere will have to be so interested in what their division can accomplish and be so alert and watchful in the discharge of their own duty that accidents which are within the range of human effort to prevent will not happen. In brief, the workers will be called upon to give proof that they know how and are more determined than ever before to apply the knowledge they have gained of safe methods in railroading.A vast amount of energy and time has been expended in training and instructing railroad employees in the principles and practices of safety.
While, on the whole, these efforts have been fruitful of a decided reduction in the number of accidents,
in many individual instances, the results have not been all that was reasonably hoped and expected they would be. It is therefore believed by those in charge of accident prevention measures, that if the proper precautions are taken and safety is actually made the first care and consideration of every employee, it will be possible to make a "No Accident" record for the period of the drive. If that be done it ought to be further possible
to make a similar record for a year, then year after year.Herin, then, is the challenge of the railroad employees. To prove that they have so completely mastered the principles and rules of safety, and are so much concerned about making a national record for their division
they will enter upon the drive with the spirit and determination to win.

SUGAR RATIONING.

During war time the American people willingly submitted to every regulation that was designed to promote a conservation of food supplies, in order that our allies and our own soldiers might have enough and to spare.
The consequent inconveniences and deprivations were endured in good spirit; the necessity therefore being apparent. But now that the war is over, and actual peace prevails, the prospect of having to submit to a sugar rationing plan is not relished by the people of America. All through the canning season housewives were unable to can as much fruit as they desired because of a shortage of sugar, which they were from time to time promised was but temporary due to a disarrangement in distribution.
Now that there is no noticeable improvement in the supply, the hint is being thrown out from Washington that a rationing plan may be necessary in order to make it possible for everybody to secure at least a partial supply.A variety of excuses is offered in explanation of this situation, says the Washington Post, "but no definite, convincing reason is assigned. The widespreading sugar shortage in Europe is said to have made a tremendous demand upon the American supply, but the information comes that sugar is quite plentiful in Germany, especially in the form of candy and sweets.
Also there are rumors that large quantities of sugar are being held in Porto Rico for higher prices."Whatever the reason for existing conditions, it may be taken as a certainty that the American people will not patiently submit to the rationing of one of the prime necessities of life.
During the war it was different. Then every patriotic citizen—which included practically all the people—willingly made such sacrifices of their comfort and needs as the exigencies of the situation demanded. Sugar, fat, bread and meat were conserved in order that our allies might be supplied.Now that the war is over, the needs of the American people should receive first consideration, and our exports should be measured by the excess above the requirements of the home market. It isn't pleasing to read that the Germans are munching American candy and making pastry with American sugar.All of which merely emphasizes the demand that is becoming more insistent in all quarters that it is time to begin paying some attention to the needs of the American people instead of continuing to boost the business of the exporters and the enrichment of the European food hoarders and profiteers.No, "Democratic Reader," the book entitled "The Road to Freedom" was not edited in the sanctums of the Syndicalist Democratic organs in Fayette county, nor by the New Freedom
dictators in Connelville and Uniontown, even though its doctrines of "direct action," "sabotage" and other gentle arts of the Syndicalists and I. W. W.s are being advocated and applied by these agencies to the present political campaign in Fayette.President Gompers will share with President Wilson the sympathy the public has for each of these leaders in their physical affliction.For what high and holy purpose does the satirist New Freedom wing of the Democratic party exist in Fayette county other than to find places for its
"deserving" members, and, in doing so,
to double-cross the honest and conscientious of the Old Guard when it comes time for handing out postoffice
and other plums?Agreeing to adjourn in about as far as the industrial Conference has progressed in the direction it was supposed to go.With its unsurpassed record of sinful extravagance and wanton waste in the use of public money the Democratic party presents a fine spectacle when posing as the advocate of "economy and efficiency" in the administration of any public office, be it city, county,
state or national.It is only when the annual meetings are held that Connelville hears anything about the operations of its building and loan associations. What is the heard is usually so good that other opportunities and means should be used to keep the people aware of the existence of these home-helping institutions. It would not be a bad idea to advertise them in "The Courier."Finding the drift of public sentiment to be strongly in the opposite direction
the Syndicalist Democratic organs are suffering uncomfortably from the backlash of their poison gas attacks.The inspection of the hog demonstration farms today will give a demonstration of a reviving industry which will show how progressive and business-like Fayette county farmers are becoming.The Democratic organs make their brother syndicalist, W. Z. Foster, look like a cent in it comes to manufacturing propaganda.To Connelville should very properly belong the honor of organizing the first woman's auxiliary of The American Legion. To do so will be in keeping with the city's record of placing first things first all through the war.

Crusoe and Friday

From Kansas City Star.

Robinson Crusoe and his man Friday had reached a point in their life
on their desert island where they were doing well. They had accumulated enough breadfruit and coconuts and other provisions so they could spare
the time to build themselves a comfortable house and make themselves some clothing. They had to work hard,<
it is true, to keep ahead of the game.
But they were industrious and thrifty,
so they began to accumulate some of the comforts of life.Then one day Crusoe said to Friday:
"What's the use of working so hard
and saving up yams and coconuts?
Thrift is out of date. Let's work short hours and not accumulate anything.
We might as well consume all we produce. Let's spend our money and get the good of it right now."
The plan sounded good to Friday.
If it was possible to be better off by looting a good share of the time, and
by not denying one's self anything, why naturally it would be foolish to work. So the new plan was put into effect.At first it worked beautifully. They had accumulated enough food so there was plenty to fall back on, and the dwelling was in good shape. But after a while the roof began to leak and their clothing to wear out and the reserve supply of food had been exhausted. They decided finally they must mend the roof and make some more clothing. But they found they had hadn't enough food for dinner. So they had to stop work on the roof while they went after food.In the time they had allotted for working, however, they discovered
they couldn't get the dwelling repaired, keep up on clothing, and obtain all the food they needed. Life became more and more uncomfortable for them. Their house became almost impossible to live in, they were ragged, and they began to feel the effects of hunger."Mr. Crusoe," Friday one day remarked after several months' trial of the new light work plan, "your scheme sounds good. But it somehow does not produce the results. For some reason we don't have as many comforts now
as we were working four hours a day.
We had when we were working eight or nine. It seems to me a home as we used to have, and as we had good clothing and as we used to under the old plan."Crusoe had had the same idea borne in on him by the experience of the previous months. So they went back to the old plan and gradually produced enough surplus to enable them to live as comfortably as they did before.Thus, the chronicler reports, did the desert island realize through painful experience the two great facts of political economy which the race regards as so disagreeable, that in the long run a good living is to be had only by work and thrift.

Carload Shipments

The Union Supply Company is receiving large numbers of carload shipments. At the present time we are receiving daily for distribution carload shipments of cabbage. This will be followed by carload shipments of potatoes, apples, hay, corn, chop, middlings, and other feeds. It is now a good time to buy your winter's supply.
Quantity purchases direct from cars make possible a large saving. Buy now while prices are low and these goods are coming in. Cold weather, storage charges, and cost of handling will make higher prices later on. Watch for these carload shipments to arrive and buy your winter's supply of these necessities at the present low prices.
Every Union Supply Company store will be receiving these goods for the next thirty days.

POWERFUL PILE REMEDY DISCOVERED

As Never Failed to End Most Obstinate Case of Piles in Few Days.
For years it has been proved that so-called external remedies applied to or inserted in the rectum cannot cure piles, and at the last can only give temporary relief. Surgical operations do not remove the cause, but only change the form.

This wonderful prescription, known as "The Pile Remedy," is so efficient in the treatment of piles, that even chronic cases of from 20 to 30 years standing with profuse bleeding have been completely cured in from three to seven days. Think of it! Just a few doses of a carefully balanced prescription and the most persistent case of Piles
is absorbed, never to return.
The "Connellsville Drug Co. Dispensary"
has it on hand for you on short notice. Surely it's worth the little trouble to obtain it to be rid of Piles forever.

IMPORTANT—What is known as prolapsed piles is not piles in the true sense of the word, although this condition may accompany a true case of piles. For this condition, "The Pile Remedy" has been prepared as in such cases it is not necessary to take the internal prescription.—Adv.

"I've got a safe full of thankful
letters testifying to the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment for old and running sores, eczema, salt
rheum, ulcers, sore nipples, broken breast, itching scalp and skin, bleeding and itching piles."

John Scott, 283 Virginia street,

DIAMOND CUT DIAMOND

Jane Bunker
Copyright—The Noble-Hart Co.

"I said, 'Mrs. Thing-downstairs believes it's music, lucky for us—we can now breathe out loud without fear of the villain. He may be listening at the front door—but he'll hear nothing while she operates.'"

Billy forked a lot of chicken onto my plate and commanded me to go to it, and I grabbed a roll out of his box and said:

"Billy, he tried to murder me."

"He?"

"That man—he was waiting for me with a dagger that night—look here!"

I jumped up and got the dagger from my penholder tray—he dropped it on the floor."

"Gee whizz!" he cried, taking the dagger from me; and then he demanded, "Who?"

"That man—De Ravenol!"

"De Ravenol?—you mean that man in Paris who wanted you to bring the pretty daughter over with you and you wouldn't?"

"Yes—that's the one. He was a diamond thief—that's what he was!"

I blew off. "He was in the act of stealing a million dollars' worth of diamonds. And I foiled him!"

"Wow! You did?"

"I should say I did! And what's more, I've got the diamonds here—there—behind you in those hancynths."

"Wow!" he whooped, and before I knew what he was doing he was out of his chair, his hand on the glass.

"Don't touch them!" I shrieked.

"Wow!" he cried, dropping his hand and jumping back. "Do they bite?"

"No—they sting. They pierce your very soul. But, Billy—stop wowing—I'm watched."

He sat down with the command, "Divulge the dread secret; and between bites I told him the whole story up to Eureka, and brought in the slipper to prove it."

He was still staring when I got through and asked him, "And now how am I going to get those beastly things out of the house and where am I going to get them to? She doesn't dare to have them at her house."

"Oh, I can take them away and hide 'em. It's that's all you want," he answered carelessly.

"It isn't all," I retorted, a bit indignant.

"It's only the beginning of a new chapter of misery for the whole of us—it's throwing the responsibility on you without getting me out of the net—it won't save me from being kidnapped and searched and maybe murdered to keep my mouth shut."

Billy nodded at that and said, "You're right."

He took a cigarette out of his case and with a short, "May I?" lighted up and began to blow rings, gazing at them abstractedly. I nibbled crumbs. After I'd stood his silence for half a cigarette, I repeated my question and told him, "We've got to do something right off—now—tonight."

"Of course." He smoked another quarter and threw the cigarette into the empty chicken tin, booming up as he spoke.

"What are we going to do?" he gave forth masterfully. "We're going to trap that bold man all by our little own selves—and I and I will give him one nice lesson on stealing diamonds from defenseless women—and threatening you."

"But we've got to hurry," I urged.

"I can't live this way much longer—it's simply killing me!"

"Sure," Billy agreed, suppressing a smile at me. "I'm hurrying all I can. I calculate to have your 'mossoo' in hand tomorrow night." And he unfolded his plot and I entered into it with fervor. The truth is Billy and I were having the fun of our lives.

The scheme was to decoy monsieur to the flat by a letter from Mrs. Delario indicating where the diamonds were hidden; was banked on his remembering the one place he hadn't searched—the hancynths; and if he got the tip we believed he'd return the moment I went out.

After some discussion Billy and I decided not to take Mrs. Delario into our confidence, not knowing how she'd act in the crisis, which necessitated our imitating her writing. The only sample of her writing we had was her address in my notebook and some titles of books on spiritualism she'd wished me to read. But the sample did us, and the joint literary efforts of myself and Billy produced the following—this purporting to be from me to her:

My Dear Mrs. Delario: Since he searched everything but the bunch of hancynths as I told you over the telephone 'Tuesday'—this struck me as an especially mal-convinced touch, for his detective must have reported both that I telephoned and the number of the call—I thought the same place would contain a safe in case of a second invasion. I got a fresh batch, so you will know where it's hidden. I'll tell you the place and get them at once; break in the flat if you have to.

I am going to try to see you Saturday night for final arrangements if I can slip out without being seen. Expect me between eight and ten. Be sure to be alone so we can talk. I'll hold to my promise—no third to you if you will help me to dispose of gem-deeds.

"Gem deeds" was Billy's touch—he declared that "mossoo" would read it "diamonds" sure as anything.

And this, purporting to be from her to him:

Monsieur: I have refused to have anything to do with this matter since I know the truth of the ownership. Under the circumstances, I feel she is foolish to try to hold on. Get the hancynths while she is at my house tonight, and the trouble will be over for everybody.

I typed my own letter with a carbon copy while Billy laboriously produced the one from Mrs. Delario.

The decoy letters we sent to the hotel where monsieur was staying. The rest of our plan was this: Billy was to "sneak in" upstairs and get into the flat; I was then to put on my wraps, go down in the elevator, telling George I was going out for the evening—so he'd report it to monsieur; wait in the lower hall for a mythical automobile till George went up with the car, and then creep up the stairs.

"This time tomorrow night I'll present you with a nice 'mossoo' in hand," affirmed Billy confidently.

"Suppose he doesn't come? Or suppose he murders me tonight?"

"Oh, the guns!" He snatched up his overcoat and dived into the pocket.

"He'll murder me!"

A PITTSBURGH MAN WAS IN DANGER OF SERIOUS ILLNESS

To Aid Fellow Sufferers James Duffy Tells How Ten-Herbs Relieved Him.

"Little do we realize to what extent a seemingly slight illness might lead if neglected," said the Ten-Herbs man.

Take the case of Mr. James Duffy, of No. 747 Reedsdale street, Pittsburgh, Pa., a boiler-maker by trade, and a well-known member of the union. He has a host of friends in that city, having been a police officer in the First ward for a number of years. He states:

"For a number of years I have had catarrh of the stomach and was in constant pain, had shortness of breath, acidity of the stomach, headaches, dizziness, and severe pains around my heart, caused by gas in my system; I was always constipated, my liver was torpid and sluggish; I could never sleep at night and at times I could scarcely get my breath. I had taken a good many different medicines without any relief until I heard of Ten-Herbs and started to take it. Now I am glad to say I have no more indigestion—have a good appetite, sleep fine, and am not constipated. I feel that by taking Ten-Herbs in time I avoided a serious illness, as I was gradually getting worse all the time. I can't praise Ten-Herbs enough."

Ten-Herbs, the new herbal stomach, liver and kidney remedy, is perhaps doing more to relieve ills of this nature than any other preparation. It is the logical remedy to take, because being made of herbs, roots, barks and berries, it is pure and harmless, and may be taken by old and young. Coming from mother earth, it is nature's own remedy—the kind our forefathers used to take.

asked myself, "What will happen if he does?"

The last half hour before Billy came was positively the longest in my life, and when the bell did finally ring I was shot through the heart and ready to die.

I came to life immediately, whispered through the door, "Who's there?" and heard, "Ans. Freewick!"

The password was given, and I opened the door.

"Then he hasn't killed you!" were my first words.

"Who? Your 'mossoo'? No—I killed him on the stairs last night—or pretty near!"

I didn't see why Billy should bestow the proprietorship on me—he wasn't my "mossoo," as I reminded Billy while he was pulling a pair of handcuffs out of his overcoat pocket.

"A mere detail," he returned. "He will be your own in an hour." He hung off his coat. "Where do we hide these things?"

"My wardrobe. . . . But he won't come."

"Oh, yes, he will—he told me so."

I thought Billy was joking and made no reply.

"Very interesting man," mused Billy. "Not at all the sort of person you'd expect to find in a diamond robbery. Wonderful knowledge of European politics—and American politics, too."

"Billy, what do you mean?" I demanded.

"Why, I took your 'mossoo' home to his hotel last night—and—"

"You didn't?" I gasped.

"Of course I did! Why not? You don't suppose I'd go off and leave him here to murder you, do you?" Billy was making the most out of his story, I could see.

"But—how—did—you—manage—?" I was still gasping.

"I didn't. He did. He wasn't going to give himself away by going upstairs; he said he was going down. So we went down together, and I kept talking to him. When we got to the street we just kept on till I'd seen him home. We were thick as thieves by that time. I invited him to see Chinatown tonight and he accepted."

"Billy! You never—"

"Yes, I did! And it's how I know he's coming tonight—see? I went round this morning in time for the first mail. He was waiting for it. Oh, he got the letter all right! And as soon as he read it he came over and told me he couldn't go to Chinatown tonight—he had diplomatic business that might take him to Washington—which means here. See?"

"Billy, you're the cleverest thing I ever saw!" I cried with real admiration.

"Thanks—coming from you I appreciate that. He said it in an offhand way, but I could see he was feeling very set up over himself. And I didn't blame him. He added, 'What the 'mossoo' was really after—why he wouldn't let me go out in the dark alone—was to know who I was calling on. I told him it was the people in the front flat and I couldn't get in. I told him it was their cousin from Boston I was calling on and maybe they'd come to the theater. That led to our talking about plays; that led to an inspiration of genius and I asked him if he'd seen Chinatown; that led to my invitation and—the rest you know."

"Billy, you are positively the cleverest man I know!"

"Didn't think I'd grow up like that, did you? And that's not all. As for the pretty daughter—your little Claire that you think so much of—don't faint now—well, she's in it up to the neck and over her ears. She's his accomplice, all right. Here's her cable message—" He drew out a bit of paper on which he'd copied it and read:

"Born a girl. Mother and child doing well. CLAIRE."

"But this is—this isn't—" I stammered.

"Quite so," agreed Billy. "It is and it isn't! It is a code. It isn't a piece of insanity. I've read it—or I think I have. Listen now: 'Born'—the precious thing that was expected has come to pass successfully; that is, the diamonds have arrived safe and sound."

He glanced at me for approval and then—puckered up his brow while editing, "This next—a girl—puzzles me a bit. It's one of three things: just a filler, to make it read; or a code word with an agreed meaning; or it refers to Mrs. Delario—that is, she still has the diamonds—she hasn't passed them on to some man. (But let that go. The next is too easy—"mother"—the owner, of course; "child"—the precious things; "doing well"—got through the customs without being separated. Phila as day—and when you and Mrs. Delario stepped out of the cable office your dear 'mossoo' stepped in and read it."

"Four little Claire?"

"Four, your wife?" snorted Billy. "You don't need to waste any palao and tears on that outfit. They're slick. Well, let's to work—'mossoo' is downstairs anxiously waiting for you to go out."

"How do you know?"

"Shadows him. . . . My revolver's all right? And the red pepper?"

"Yes—but I've been thinking about that pepper and how about ammonia instead?"

"H-m-m," considered Billy. "What's the advantage?"

"It wears off quicker, and I think it's probably safer for us if he struggles and we have to hold him down."

"Guess it is," Billy agreed. "Got it ready?"

I took him to the kitchen and showed him half a glass of household ammonia diluted with water and covered with a saucer. Then I hung his coat and hat in my wardrobe. After that he looked at me and I looked at him—the fatal moment had arrived.

"Well," said Billy, I seemed to know he'd say "well."

"Well!" I repeated after him, trying to pretend to myself I didn't know what he meant.

Billy glanced at the clock. "Your 'mossoo' is wondering why you don't come. By the way—there wasn't a soul in the lower hall when I sneaked in—he's sent his man off for fear you won't leave."

My knees were shaking under me. I was sure Billy knew it, but he affected not to notice. He took one of the revolvers and inserted a blank cartridge for the first shot, explaining that we couldn't have an accident without breaking eggs. I was to jump out of my bedroom and fire this as soon as monsieur reached the dining room.

"I calculate we'll have him now in about fifteen minutes," was Billy's delicate hint to me to go on with my part, and with knees ready to close up under me like jackknives I rang for George.

I must say that George acquitted himself very creditably—as a spy. Instead of his usual inquisitive "Go in to be out all the evening?" he put it in this way: "If somebody calls when shall I tell 'em you're home?"

"Tell them I won't be home—say I'm out for the evening," I returned.

THE VALUE OF COKE AS BASIC INDUSTRY REALIZED IN WAR

Its By-Products Helped Materially in Winning the Great Struggle.

SUPPLIED ALL THE ALLIES

With Prodigious Quantities of Munitions Resulting in a Record Production in 1916; More Than Half of Which Was Made in Pennsylvania.

The manufacture of coke has always been considered a basic industry, but the immense value of coke and its by-products was not generally realized in this country until we entered the world war, when our by-product coke ovens were called upon to supply the raw material required for making dyes and explosives. These ovens also supplied most of the ammonia used for refrigerating meats and other perishable articles sent abroad, as well as the larger part of the coal tar products used in building roads and canals, and in other military construction, besides furnishing artificial gas for illumination and for heating and oils for the flotation of ore. The direct product of these ovens—the coke itself—is required for use not only in metallurgy and other manufacturing but for domestic heating and cooking.

By the fall of 1915 it had become evident that the war must be won not only by mobilization of armies but by the mobilization of industries—that it would be won by the nation that could produce steel, other metals and explosives in greatest quantities, and as coke is essential to steel making and its by-products are essential to the manufacture of explosives the coke-making industry at once came to the front and became a center of intense interest. The foreign demand for munitions had become so great at the beginning of 1916 that the quantity of coke produced made a new record, but during the fall of that year the output was considerably restrained by the congestion of traffic on the railroads. The difficulties that had to be overcome in producing and marketing fuels after the United States entered the war and the means adopted to overcome them have now become matters of history.

Though the output of coke in 1916 had exceeded that in 1915 31 per cent, reaching 54,000,000 tons, the output in 1917 went still higher, amounting to more than 55,000,000 tons, valued at the ovens at $208,000,000. More than half of this coke was made in Pennsylvania, and more than half the remainder was made in Alabama, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Illinois.

The prices of coke in the Connellsville region, of Pennsylvania, the most active coke market in the United States, reached top figures in 1916 and went higher in 1917. The price of spot furnace coke reaching $16.25 a ton in July and that of spot foundry coke reaching $14.25, a presidential order of September 24 established a price of $5 a net ton for both grades.

The foregoing facts are set forth more in detail in "Mineral Resources of the United States," the annual publication of the United States Geological Survey, to which C. E. Lester and W. T. Thom, Jr., contribute the chapter on Coke and By-Products in 1916 and 1917. This contains a review of the coke industry in the United States during those years, statistics of production, distribution, and consumption, and other information concerning the coke-making industry. A free copy of this pamphlet can be obtained from the Director of the Geological Survey at Washington, D. C.

Smart Versions of the Suit

One does not have to assert the popularity of the tailored suit when writing of fashions. In America it goes without saying, for the suit is always the backbone of the American woman's outfit, for every season of the year. It fits in with her manner of life. If our devotion to the tailored suit needed any sustaining it would not lack it; for Paris has pronounced its approval of our favorite and set about to show what France can do in the production of smart models. We are glad to study these examples of the genius of the French and confident that, in this particular field, American models will never suffer by comparison. They are more likely to excel over their competitors. But we cannot have all the good ideas and we will profit by the exhaustless ingenuity of the French.

Two handsome and practical "made in America" suits for the coming winter season invite the consideration of those who give the study of styles the utmost attention it deserves. The tailored suit more than anything else needs to be carefully selected. There are a few new phases of the mode to consider. They include the prominence given very high choker collars, wider skirts and longer coats, semi-fitted, and a few rather snugly fitted coats with ripple skirts, shorter than those of the semi-fitted models. A fine model for practical use is shown with a coat that is an extreme of the mode in length. It has a straight front and paneled back and between them, at each side, tucked under arm pieces are set in. The tucks are graduated in width, with the widest one eight inches above the hem. Two bone buttons at the front of the coat and one on each sleeve, indicate that buttons must play a minor role as a decorative feature for this season. The skirt is plain. Tricot is the favorite material for suits of this character.

A more dressy suit of velours reveals a coat that is very new in design. It is semi-fitted, with skirt portion set on to make an effect of drape on the hips; and this piece is bordered in points with graduated disks between them. The same design appears on the skirt which in this suit is considerably wider than those of the past season. At the front and back, between the embroidered points, a handsome motif emphasizes the prominence given to embroidery in this model and indicates that skirts may be less plain than they have been. The very narrow skirt has disappeared, for which dispensation of fashion let us be thankful.

COULD you look into one home in every twenty in America and see in all of them a coffee being served that is good enough to make breakfast as happy as this—

Could you see all these homes using the same coffee—

You would never rest until you had tried that coffee.

Your grocer has it for you—Arbuckles! It is by far the most popular coffee sold in America today!

Like the women in these other million homes, you will find that Arbuckles' has the rich full flavor you have always wanted.

Until you serve it you will never know how much pleasure coffee can give!

How to make Your Clothes Wear Longer

You have observed what happens to a flag that flaps and whips in the breeze. In time it becomes shredded and tattered.

Your washing, when you dry it on the line, is subjected to this same wearing action. Of course, the effects are not so severe and not so apparent to the eye as those suffered by the flag but they are there nevertheless.

There is none of this wear when we dry for you. We simply place your clothes in a magic basket. In 15 minutes, without so much as a thread being disturbed, they are practically dry.

A few minutes more in warm, pure air and they are completely dry.

No wringing, no flapping, no soot—the result is longer life for your clothes; economy of expenditure and economy of labor.

Doesn't this appeal to you as the proper way to have your family washing dried?

This, however, is but one of the conserving details of our improved laundering methods. A trial will be convincing. Telephone and we will have our driver call for your family bundle.

14-DAY "NO ACCIDENT" DRIVE STARTS SATURDAY ON EVERY RAILROAD IN THE COUNTRY

War is terrible and the leading minds of the greatest nations on earth have been busy for months devising means to prevent forever the clash of arms and the resultant loss of human bodies. The League of Nations is regarded as the consummation of the deliberations of the five leading world powers. Every mother, father, sister and brother in this country devoutly hopes and prays that some means will be adopted so that their loved ones will not again be called upon to face the great guns whose harvest is human flesh and blood. In the great world war there were 5,000 killed in battle and 238,000 wounded, all Americans.

But the war, so far as the United States is concerned, was a matter of only 18 months, while for years the railroads have been taking their toll of life and limb with alarming regularity.

The whole world has determined that war must cease; that Mars must be a forgotten personage in the realm of mythology.

The United States Railroad Administration has caught the fervor of the moment and will endeavor to have a "League of No Accidents." The drive opens at one minute after midnight tomorrow night, and for two weeks following every official and every employee will strive to defeat the inexorable monster who steals the happiness from so many homes.

Director General Hiles has issued the call for the great army of two million workers under his jurisdiction to sign themselves and be ready to march forth under the immediate leadership of A. F. Duffy, manager, Safety Section, United States Railroad Administration. The general orders of Mr. Hiles read as follows:

"This successful intensified safety work has attracted the favorable attention and earnest inquiry of the British and Japanese railroad officials in letters received the past week asking for information. This shows its world-wide, as well as national, influence. A. F. Duffy, manager, Safety Section, Division of Operation, United States Railroad Administration, has decided to hold the National Railroad Accident Prevention drive for a period of two weeks, beginning October 15, at 12:01 A. M., and ending October 31, at midnight, along the general lines of the recent successful sectional campaign, of the character. This has my hearty approval and I shall be glad to have you officially and actively support this drive which is to be carried on under the direction and supervision of the Safety Section."

The "successful intensified safety work" that Mr. Hiles speaks of is the "No Accident" campaign which was conducted on many of the big railroads in recent months. Reports show that the casualties were cut greatly by the intensity of the cooperation of officials and employees. This impressed the Washington officers and they determined every line under federal control could do as well as those who had tried the "No Accident" campaign.

One of the roads which entered vigorously upon the campaign was the Baltimore & Ohio and both the Eastern and Western Lines the percentage of casualties as compared with previous like periods was cut considerably. The Cumberland Valley, Cumberland & Pennsylvania, and the Western Maryland railroads, all under the direction of Federal Manager C. W. Galloway, likewise made enviable records. Federal Manager R. N. Beigen, of the Western Lines of the Baltimore & Ohio is proud of the record made in his territory and firmly believes that his men will surpass it in the national drive.

Each railroad will be allowed to map its plans. J. T. Frederick, superintendent of Safety and Welfare departments, has laid plans to make an intensive effort to eliminate accidents absolutely on the Baltimore & Ohio and the other lines under the jurisdiction of Federal Managers Galloway and Beigen. Efforts will be made to carry the drive right into the homes of employees, for it is the home which suffers most every time a man is killed or injured.

FURTHER REDUCTION IN BEEHIVE COKE DUE TO THE STEEL STRIKE

Was 9.2 Per Cent During Week of October 4; General in the East and Southern Districts.

The production of beehive coke in the United States during the week ending October 4 is estimated by the United States Geological Survey at $12,197 net tons, compared with the preceding week. This was a decrease of 21.62; tons or 9.2 per cent. The decline was general over the East and South. In the southwest production increased. Washington and Utah held its own.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, do-it-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 10c and 25c.

The drop in production is, of course, due to the steel strike. It furnishes a rough measure of the effect of the strike upon the steel industry since the requirements of the iron furnaces are by far the largest element in the demand for beehive coke. Studies made by the Fuel Administrator showed that about 20 per cent of the total coke output of the country goes to coal-gas plants, domestic consumers, foundries and metallurgical plants other than blast furnaces. The remainder, 80 per cent, is consumed by the iron industry.

During the month just preceding the strike the beehive output was running at about 140,000 tons a week. Production during the first week of the strike was thus 78 per cent, and during the second week 71 per cent of the average just before the strike. The demand for beehive coke is now more active than at any time from mid-April to mid-July.

Production by districts, compared with the week ending October 5, 1918, was as follows:

1918 1919

Penn. and Ohio 125,131 111,875

W. Va. 17,032 14,041

Ala., Tenn., Ga. 30,271 31,041

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene St. Julien, Carpenter, 625 Pearl Street, New York, N. Y. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Simple Home Remedy Advised For Rose And Hay Fever

Anyone Can Make a Pint For Trifling Sum and Used in Time May Prevent Annual Attack

"No matter how severe your yearly attack be. No matter how distressing or humiliating—its intensity can be reduced to a harmless nuisance."

says a Kentucky druggist who believes from what he has seen that this simple home made remedy is a most important discovery.

He has seen the most severe and apparently unmanageable cases reduced to what might be called a mild cold in twenty-four hours.

In many cases where the patient started treatment a week or ten days before the expected attack the now-come yearly ailment failed to appear with anything like its usual intensity.

People who want to try this new treatment can make a pint in a few minutes.

Four one ounce of Mentholized Arcline into a pint bottle then fill the bottle with water that has been boiled. Gargle daily as directed and sniff or spray the nostrils twice daily.

That's all there is to the treatment which so many sufferers have found to be a true friend.

Mentholized Arcline in one ounce vials is dispensed by all the better pharmacies.

REGION STILL PRESERVES ITS EQUILIBRIUM IN PRODUCTION

Waning of Steel Strike and Resumption of Furnaces Bring Inquiries.

SHIPMENTS ON CONTRACTS

Going to Furnaces Which Had Given Suspension Orders; Prospect of a Coal Miners' Strike Stimulates Activity in the Market for Coal.

From The Weekly Courier.

Whatever change there has been in the coke situation during the past week has been in the direction of a further strengthening. The certain but slow waning of the strike; the resumption of inactive furnaces and the preparation to resume others, together with the absence of accumulations of coke on either the yards or sidings at the plants, and the continued close regulation of production to demand, have jointly and severally operated to maintain a proper equilibrium. Coupled with the more active demand for coal, which finds its stimulus in the prospect of an interruption to production in the unionized districts beginning November 1, the fuel trade situation in the Conneltsville region has assumed relatively very satisfactory proportions, having in mind the existence of a strike aimed at crippling the largest consumers of the region's chief product.

The fact that inquiries have been coming into the region for coke for furnaces getting into shape for early resumption, and that explicit instructions have been issued this week to resume shipments of coke on account of furnace contracts, suspended when the strike took place, together with other orders directing the resumption of by-product coal shipments to coke-making plants which closed down at the beginning of the strike, very concrete evidence is presented that the trade is making substantial progress. It shows, too, that the steel strike is gradually losing its grip.

Although evidence of the weakening of the strike have been apparent almost from the beginning the coke coalers have not at any time ceased to exercise prudent precautions with respect to over production, and even now they are not disposed to take any chances that something may occur over night so to speak, that would make a sudden demand for larger output of coke. That they have kept reasonably close tabs on the situation is shown by the progressive decline in the amount it has been necessary to curtail production because of the strike. From the drop of 72,000 tons a production during the first week of the strike to a 23,000 tons cut in the second week and a 4,800 tons reduction in the third week, there is graphically presented the effect of the restrictive policy the region has consistently followed as a means of preventing a demoralization of the trade. The wisdom of the policy is realized by producer and consumer alike.

The increased calls for by-product coal has had a strengthening effect upon prices, the present range being $2.50 @ $2.55. Steam coal readily commands $2.50 and spot furnace coke, upon inquiry rather than offer, is steady at $4.25.

Coke car supply keeps close to 95 per cent of requirements, but coal cars continue to be relatively less plentiful. The Pennsylvania railroad last week distributed about 75 per cent on the average; the Monongahela and the Baltimore & Ohio somewhat less.

Coke production for the week ending Saturday, October 11, is estimated at 152,764 tons contributed by the two districts as follows: Conneltsville, 79,504, a decline of 876 tons; Lower Conneltsville, 73,260, a decline of 3,960 tons, or a total decline of 4,836 tons as compared with the preceding week. By interests the production was: Furnace, 68,751, a loss of 3,496 tons; merchant, 84,013, a loss of 1,340 tons. There was a net reduction of 211 in the number of cars on overs, the merchant plants having blown out 204 and the furnace plants seven.

DRUGS EXCITE YOUR KIDNEYS, USE SALTS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much, also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.
